October was Head Start Awareness Month!

The ACF Family Room blog posted a message from Dr. Bernadine Futrell, Director of the Office of Head Start. Read the full message here: <https://eclkc.ohs.acf.hhs.gov/blog/october-head-start-awareness-month>

“Join us in celebrating Head Start Awareness Month and the ways Head Start programs partner with other ACF programs to leverage comprehensive services for children and families.

Head Start programs support growth and learning for infants, toddlers, and preschool-aged children across all domains of development, and health and wellness for enrolled pregnant women. These comprehensive services include a focus on family support toward economic mobility; research-based curricula that foster a child’s approach to learning; healthy physical activity and nutrition; support for social and emotional development; full inclusion of children with disabilities and delays; and connections to a medical and dental home and screenings. Parents participate as leaders in Head Start programs by giving input on program activities and operations. Head Start programs partner with families in a variety of settings, including centers, family child care spaces, and children’s own homes. Since 1965, Head Start programs have provided services to more than 37 million children.

...The federal-to-local model for the Head Start program allows local leaders to create a Head Start experience that is unique and specific to the needs of that community. This is why we say with pride that no one Head Start program looks the same.”

Yasmina Vinci, Executive Director of the National Head Start Association, recently published an op-ed in The Hill advocating for the proven Head Start model of providing high-quality education and comprehensive services, to lead the way in any expansion of universal pre-K. You can read the article at <https://thehill.com/opinion/education/571218-universal-preschool-plan-should-prioritize-equity-and-model-head-start>

Head Start/Early Head Start News

HEAD START/EARLY HEAD START

After a year of struggling with fire-related renovations, YVY is grateful that our beautiful Farragut Road site in Canarsie, Brooklyn, is up and running again, looking more beautiful than ever! The renovation project was the result of an outstanding team effort.

The Office of Head Start announced that it will resume in-person, on-site monitoring reviews beginning in January 2022. YVY continuously self-monitors its program on an ongoing basis, and we are confident that our agency's performance will once again satisfy and impress reviewers, as they have consistently done in the past.

Cool Culture is back! Cultural sites closed, as a result of measures implemented to slow the spread of COVID-19, prevented Head Start families from enjoying museums, exhibitions and parks during the pandemic. However, with the start of the new year and the reopening of many of these locations, many of our sites are once again, distributing Cool Culture cards to families, providing them with entry to cultural institutions at no cost.

A Head Start family rides the train to a fun outing at the zoo.

YVY's Fitness Center now offers two exciting classes, for mothers and staff, conducted on alternating Thursdays. Classes include Water Yoga with Shavy and Total Body Workout + Dance Fusion with Malky. Parents of Head Start and Early Head Start children, as well as women enrolled in YVY's Expectant Moms program, can sign up for a free or discounted membership at the Fitness Center. Ask for the verification form at your Head Start site, and stop by the Fitness Center to sign up. Head Start and Early Head Start moms sure have a lot on their hands, so dedicating some time for yourself to socialize and establish a healthy fitness routine will benefit the whole family!

YVY's Head Start program is delighted to announce that its Reading Readiness Book Distribution Initiative has resumed. Research shows that reading with children encourages the child's cognitive development, improves language skills and academic performance, and aids in emotional attachment. The project, which enables the children in our programs to take home new books (for keeps!), was very well received the last time around and will surely delight and benefit a new group of children this year.

YVY's Lakewood Early Head Start expansion program is off to a great start this fall.

In an exciting initiative to continue meeting the needs of families in our community who have moved out of New York City seeking a more affordable cost of living, YVY has successfully partnered with existing child care programs in Lakewood, New Jersey, to service children from birth until 3 years of age, and their families, as well as pregnant women. YVY's Lakewood program has been very well received by children, staff, families and the community, all of whom are excited to benefit from the services offered by Yeled v'Yalda's latest venture! Heni Mozes, YVY's Lakewood Regional Director, has coordinated the recruitment and training of a team of highly qualified and experienced administrative and center-level staff who are doing an amazing job of setting up the regional program, as well as the centers and classrooms. The partnership between the Early Head Start program and existing community-based child care programs supports a high-quality continuum of birth-to-5 services. To that end, YVY continues to explore and pursue new opportunities for enrolled children to seamlessly transition from Early Head Start to Head Start, to provide undisrupted continuity in their progress toward school readiness.

PROJECT REACH HEAD START

Project REACH started the program year by literally 'reach'ing up high! All of the children enjoyed the new Balloon theme of the 2021-2022 school year. The childrens' first session centered around balloon play and a related story book. The Home Instructors attended an orientation training which focused on building preschool skills through open-ended play. The Learn & Play socialization events this year will follow Project REACH's educational units with several new and exciting additions. Brand new custom-made furnishings for 1265 38th Street are nearing completion. Much thought and attention went into designing the life-like preschool kitchen, dollhouse and puppet theater. In addition, a unique art studio experience will be offered for children and adults who attend Project REACH's upcoming events. Project REACH will feature open art opportunities modeled after the world renown artist, Nona Orbach, which will be structured to promote enhanced creativity and experimentation with a variety of artistic mediums throughout the year.

HEALTH SERVICES

The Health Services department worked through the summer to ensure all Yeled VYalda sites would be able to open safely and in compliance with the DOH regulations. Many health policies have been updated and all staff have been trained on how to properly carry out the Health Safety Plan. A new remote health screening phone system has been introduced in which staff and families can remotely answer the mandated DOH questions to avoid Covid spread at sites. Parents are asked to make sure to take the call every morning and respond to the questions.

Hearing, vision and dental screenings took place for all YVY children in early fall. YVY Family Workers will follow up with the families of children who have been referred during the screenings. Classroom toothbrushing is in place again! A safety policy is in place to ensure proper precautionary measures are followed. Don't forget that all children must have a flu shot by December 31st - Your child can go and get it now. If your child has been exposed to Covid or tests positive, please contact the school so that we can assess and take action as needed. Let's have a safe and productive year together!

NUTRITION SERVICES

Yeled VYalda Head Start and Early Head Start's back to school has been truly remarkable. The YVY Departments of Nutrition Services and Health Services have worked diligently all summer to assure that children and staff's health and safety are a priority for a successful reopening of all programs.

The newest guidelines from Office of Head Start, as well as the NYC Department of Health and the Department of Education, have been incorporated into staff orientations, program policies and daily classroom guidelines. We continue to work with parents and teachers to coordinate care, assess children's needs and provide nutritious meals that meet the children's dietary needs. A culturally appropriate approach is utilized when choosing the foods for YVY's child-centered meal service. Guidance provided by the USDA is followed on how to effectively provide nutritionally complete credible meals that are food allergy safe. Food allergy protocols and care plans are implemented to provide a supportive classroom environment to all YvY's allergic children. In addition, the NYS CACFP Protocol for Classroom Observation and Ongoing Monitoring is used at mealtime to assure quality assurance at all times.

PARENT INVOLVEMENT

Parent Involvement enhances parenting skills, knowledge, and understanding of the educational and developmental needs and activities of children. Participation by Head Start parents is crucial to the success of the children and program.

Special Ed & Related Services

Yeled v'Yalda's Special Education Department is continuously expanding! With over 150 new providers for the current school year, servicing dozens of new school sites, our trademark quality services are back in-person in full swing. To keep up with the influx of new providers, our supervision team has grown as well. Our supervision leaders select elite clinicians to train, advise, and oversee the next generation of providers.

Our Professional Development Department continues to lead the field in educating providers on the latest research and best practices. Through teaming up with leaders in each therapy field, we are able to host workshops, teleconferences, and full day symposiums geared towards each specific service field. The impact has been tremendous, as we see our providers apply the newly learned skills to their services, and in training teachers and parents to fully support their students' needs.

Children enjoy a mega painting experience at a Project REACH family event

Children develop at different rates, and each child is unique in their own development, growth, and acquisition of skills.

Early development and learning are multi-dimensional. Children's learning is integrated and occurs simultaneously across all domains, which are interrelated and interactive with one another.

Children are active learners; A primary approach to learning is through purposeful play. Intentional planning promotes rich learning experiences that encourage participation, involve multiple contexts, and engage the senses that help children explore their environment.

Backpack Connection Series

About this Series

The Backpack Connection Series was created by TACSEI to provide a way for teachers and parents/caregivers to work together to help young children develop social emotional skills and reduce challenging behavior. Teachers may choose to send a handout home in each child's backpack when a new strategy or skill is introduced to the class. Each Backpack Connection handout provides information that helps parents stay informed about what their child is learning at school and specific ideas on how to use the strategy or skill at home.

The Pyramid Model

The Pyramid Model is a framework that provides programs with guidance on how to promote social emotional competence in all children and design effective interventions that support young children who might have persistent challenging behavior. It also provides practices to ensure that children with social emotional delays receive intentional teaching. Programs that implement the Pyramid Model are eager to work together with families to meet every child's individualized learning and support needs. To learn more about the Pyramid Model, please visit ChallengingBehavior.org.

How to Help Your Child Recognize & Understand Disappointment

Brooke Brogle, Alyson Jiron & Jill Giacomini

Disappointment is a normal, though difficult, part of growing up. Your child is likely to experience disappointment as she makes new friends, tries new things and experiences the ups and downs of her world. Whether it's a trip to the park that is ruined by rain or missing a birthday party, life is full of little and big disappointments. When you allow your child to feel, experience and learn from little disappointments at an early age, you help her to create the skills she will need to successfully handle the bigger disappointments she will experience later in childhood and as an adult.

Try This at Home

- Notice and label when you, your child or others are disappointed. Explain that everyone, including adults, feel disappointment. You might say:
  - » About yourself: "I am disappointed. Grandma was supposed to come for a visit but she is home sick. I'm going to make her a Get Well card."
  - » About your child: "You have tears in your eyes. I see you are disappointed. You really wanted to go to the park but it is raining. I wonder what we can do on a rainy day like today?"
  - » About others: "That little girl is really disappointed. Her mommy told her she could not have an ice cream. I wonder what she can do to feel better in her body."
- Practice ways to handle disappointment before a potentially disappointing incident occurs. For example, if you know that your child will be disappointed if someone else is on her favorite swing, come up with appropriate solutions ahead of time. You could say, "When we go to the playground, someone else might be on your favorite swing. You might feel disappointed. What could you do to stay calm?" Come up with some solutions such as asking the child for a turn, saying please, or bringing a shovel and pail to play in the sandbox while the other child is on the swing.
- Encourage and teach problem solving. "I know you are disappointed to miss Sophie's birthday party. You are a great card maker and I bet you will find a way to wish her a happy birthday."
- Disappointment can quickly lead to feelings of anger if not acknowledged. Simply acknowledge her feelings without overreacting. "You really wanted the red cup. Your sister has the red cup today. Do you want the blue or the green one?"

- Role model how small disappointments can sometimes end up being positive. "I was so disappointed that the car was getting fixed today but I ended up having so much fun with you. It was a great day!"

Practice at School

Children can become disappointed at school when their excitement or expectations about a toy, activity or person don't turn out the way they want. Each child handles disappointment differently and teachers help children to recognize how they are feeling and begin to think about ways to find solutions for their problem so they can feel positive again. As a class, children learn by watching their peers solve their own problems and try to think about solutions themselves.

The Bottom Line

Disappointment can be a healthy and positive, although unpleasant, emotion in young children. The disappointment of not getting to wear the princess dress, dropping the ice cream cone or not being first in line prepares children to deal with life's greater obstacles in later childhood and adulthood. Parents can help their children recognize and understand disappointment, soothe themselves and problem solve. While tempting, it is not helpful for parents to try to keep their children from feeling disappointment and have life always flow smoothly. Parents can help their children so much more if they instead teach them how to recognize and cope with all of their feelings (i.e. anger, joy, excitement and disappointment) and teach children how to cope with emotions instead of expressing themselves with challenging behaviors.
